Not illustrated. 1895 Excerpt: . . . and he alleges that the defendants have adopted the same plan, arrangement, tables, gradation of examples and illustrations by unit marks, In the same page, in imitation of the plaintiffs book, and in Infringement of his copy-right and, In confirmation of this statement he refers to divers pages of his own book in comparison with divers pages of the book of the defendants. Now, I say that it is wholly immaterial whether each of these particulars, the arrangement of the tables and forms of the lessons, the gradation of the examples to precede the tables, the Illustration of the examples by unit marks, had each existed in a separate form in different and separate works before the plaintiffs work, If they had never been before united in one combination or in one work, or on one page in the manner in which the plaintiff has united and connected them. No person had a right to borrow the same plan, and arrangement and illustrations, and servilely to copy them into any other work. The same materials were certainly open to be used by any other author, and he would be at liberty to use unit marks and gradations of examples and tables and illustrations of the lessons, and to place them In the same page. But he could not be at liberty to transcribe the very lessons and pages and examples and illustrations of the plaintiff, and thus to rob him of the fruits of his industry, his skill, and his expenditures...
